

My unique experiences at HACC...well, HACC offers many different things, such as the tutoring centers and learning centers. A lot of different institutions do not necessarily allow that, so there's really no way you can fail at HACC, unless, say, your time varies. In my situation, it does a lot. So if I were fresh out of high school I'd be able to take advantage of all of the tutoring opportunities available, but everyone's situation is different, as I said before.

I would definitely recommend my family, friends and co-workers to HACC because of all those experiences. Like I said, it's very unique to HACC. I've had the pleasure of visiting and talking with other individuals from different colleges, and they don't offer as many programs as HACC does by way of learning and succeeding, so I'll definitely recommend someone.
